April Showers Brings May Flowers, in Model A's

President's Message

Why do we love these cars so much? I'm sure we all have our own answers. Maybe childhood memories, maybe memories of tours or our parents...

Maybe we love working on these cars or helping a buddy work on theirs.

Maybe it's not so much the cars but the people we meet and get to know. Maybe these Model A's are just a vehicle to find friendship, comradery and see the world through a different windshield.

Let's get out, share our cars with the world and put a smile on our faces and maybe the broader community also.

The Wednesday morning breakfasts at The Last Frontier Casino in La Center at about 7:30 is still going strong and the Friday lunch (11:00 AM) at Lisa's Country Kitchen continues to draw a group of hungry guys each week.

Sincerely, Roger Green, President, Volcano A's

The Model A Horn

Non-working or weak Model A horns seem to keep rearing their ugly heads. Every couple of months, I hear about someone who has this affliction. So, let us go over a few things and see if we can eliminate some of the problems.

The first thing to remember is that unlike modern horns, the Model A horn requires a lot more current flow. Anything that would hinder this “flow” should be addressed. Bad wiring, bad or multiple connections, and inadequate wire size are all current robbing and should be corrected. Check the horn button to see that it is working properly. And, don’t forget to check connections all the way back to the battery. Cleaning the commutator should be done on a semi-regular schedule. The commutator is the bronze segmented ring around the motor shaft that the spring loaded brushes “ride” on. Bronze does corrode, especially in humid climates. Keeping these clean will improve conductivity. Some people use fine sand paper while others use a wire brush. Both are effective at removing corrosion. If you use sandpaper, try to stay with the extra fine grit and be sure to clean away any sand that might be left behind. If a small wire brush is your weapon of choice, then be careful to stay away from the brushes and other wire connections as you may cause sparking. Make sure when you finish, to look for and remove any stray wire bristles left behind by the wire brush. Whichever method you use, the commutator should shine like a new penny. You may also want to clean between the commutator bars to remove any “brush” residue, which can build up and cause “arcing” between the bars. Use a toothpick, but be gentle, you do not want to remove the material that holds the bars in place. Cleaning the brushes is not usually necessary, using the horn will keep them clean, but if you feel it needs to be done, I would seek out a person that is proficient in taking them apart. Replacing then is usually done more often than cleaning them.

Since the A horn is a machine, lubrication is very important. The places needing oil are on the shaft, both sides of the motor. I usually dribble some high-grade oil where the motor shaft touches the adjusting arm and where the motor shaft disappears into the “bell” of the horn. Both places should have a felt washer. These act as a reservoir to store oil. If one or both are missing, then you need to oil a lot more often! The shaft needs to be kept lubricated.

For the horn you just need a couple drops of oil on the felt pad. The felt pad is in the back.

Make sure the adjusting screw is not too tight. The tighter it is, the more it sound your horn will make, but too tight will require the motor to work harder than necessary - gobbling current and creating excessive heat that could cause motor damage.

Even if these things are all done, some horns will still not operate well. The charging system may need to be “kicking” to operate your horn. (This could be a sign of bad windings on the armature of the motor.) Most charging systems will not charge at an idle – no generator will and only a few alternators can. If you need a little “rev” on the engine to make your horn bellow, then perhaps a rebuild is in order. There may be other reasons that your horn will not work or be weak, but these are the most common. If you’ve tried these solutions and are still not able to tell people to “git outta the way”, then I would look into a horn rebuild. Most parts are not very expensive. You will be surprised at how easily your A could have its voice back.

The 3rd Monday of May and the rest of the week is American Craft Beer week.

The Vancouver Brewery was started in 1856, near Fort Vancouver. In 1859, Weinhard bought the Vancouver Brewery. In 1867, the Vancouver Brewery was relocated to a more convenient location near Vancouver's public square. Sometime before 1890, the brewery name was changed to Star Brewing. In 1904, the Star Brewing Company was purchased by the Northern Brewery Company. During prohibition the Star Brewing Company was closed. They reopened in 1933 and sold to Interstate Brewing Company in 1939. In 1950, the Interstate Brewing Company changed their name to Lucky Brewing Company. They were in business from 1950 to 1985, in which at that time they closed.

In honor of May 13, National Apple Pie Day... Comstock is one of the nation's early canned pie fillings and may be the nation's first. The idea? Instead of cutting and cooking apples before you bake them in a pie, all you have to do is buy a crust, open the can, pour it in, and bake. Their first trademark was in 1931.

Recipe of the Month

In honor of May 5th and the top 10 Authentic Cinco de Mayo Foods and Fun Facts...

1. Molé - Molé Poblano is the official dish of Cinco de Mayo because the day commemorates Mexico's victory over the French at the Battle of Puebla. Try our take on molé with our Molé Tilapia Tostadas recipe!
2. Chilaquiles - Chilaquiles were introduced to America in 1898, and they are commonly eaten for breakfast in Mexico. Kick off your Cinco de Mayo right with our Harissa Chilaquiles recipe.
3. Tamales - Tamales are one of the most iconic Mexican dishes ever and have been around since the dawn of civilization in the Americas. Historically, tamales were only eaten on holidays, making them the perfect meal for Cinco de Mayo.
4. Carnitas - Carnitas are also associated with festive occasions. Back when carnitas were first invented, it would take the effort of a whole community to make them! Our Instant Pot recipe cuts the cook time way down.
5. Barbacoa - Barbacoa traditionally refers to meats slow-roasted over an open fire. Each region of Mexico has its unique take on barbacoa, and it's yet another Mexican dish that is reserved for holidays. Try our recipe for Beef Barbacoa Bowls this Cinco de Mayo.
6. Fish Tacos - The quintessential fish taco was invented on the northwest coast of Mexico in the 50s and 60s, around the same time Cinco de Mayo was gaining popularity in the U.S. We have lots of fish taco recipes, but this is one of our favorites.
7. Horchata - Horchata is a drink featuring milk, vanilla and cinnamon flavors. While we most commonly associate it with Mexico, it's thought that ancient Egyptians might have invented this drink. Our recipe adds an adult kick of rum — perfect for celebrating.
8. Mexican Street Corn - Elotes, or Mexican Street Corn, is a popular street food and is often a go-to late-night snack in Mexico. Corn is a staple of Mexican cuisine, and our favorite recipe includes slathering it in sour cream, mayo, and cheese. Yum!
9. Pozole - Pozole is a cross between soup and stew and has existed since ancient Aztecs. The bright colors and delicious flavors are perfect for Cinco de Mayo.
10. Guacamole - According to the California Avocado Commission, eighty-seven million pounds of avocados are consumed on Cinco de Mayo. It's yet another dish we can thank the Aztecs for!

As a bonus, the most popular beverage is the... Margaritas - Historically, not all people from Mexico could drink tequila because it was considered the nectar of the gods — only priests could consume it. But our recipe is yours to make! Forty-seven percent of all drinks ordered on Cinco de Mayo are margaritas.

(UPDATED) Smooth Riders Tour, Sept. 28 – Oct. 1 2023

SEPTEMBER 28, 2023 - It will follow the same route from Walla Walla, WA to Clarkston, WA except we will take a different route through the wheat fields of central Southeastern Washington. There will be about 12 miles of gravel road but it is very, VERY scenic to say the least. At least we will be off of HWY 12 for a bit. I know this might not be good for some of you BUT you can always take the pavement route to Clarkston where we will spend our first night September 28, 2023! We will discuss this route at the start of our tour.

We will have lunch at the Patata Flower Mill then on to Clarkston taking the back roads and Dinner at Roosters.

SEPTEMBER 29, 2023 - From Clarkston, WA we will tour through the Nez Perce Indian Reservation with a lunch stop west of Cottonwood, ID., in Kutterville, ID at the Kutterville Pub and Grub and maybe a museum tour or two. We then will travel on to White Bird, ID for a stop at an antique store and the White Bird Canyon Battle Site, and then on to Grangeville, Idaho for the second night with a dinner at a Rib House.

SEPTEMBER 30, 2023 - From Grangeville, ID we will go back to Clarkston, WA, with a side trip to Peirce, ID for lunch at Miss Lily's Gold Rush Saloon, to spend the night. We may have dinner again at Roosters or another place if we choose.

OCTOBER 1, 2023 - From Clarkston, WA back home.

NOTE: You will be required to make your own hotel reservations for this tour.

In Clarkston (2 nights):

1. Holiday Inn Clarkston
2. River Tree Inn
3. Best Western Plus The Inn at Hells Canyon

In Grangeville (1 night):

1. Super 8 by Wyndham
2. Gateway Inn

Presidents News

May is an exciting month for all of our youth connected to the Model A hobby. As outlined in The Restorer's January/February article titled: May is Model A Youth Month, written by Emily Ellway, the Model A community sets aside the entire month, worldwide, for the recognition of the young people involved with the Model A hobby and is dedicated to activities designed to engage our youth into our hobby. According to the Annie Casey Foundation and U.S. census data: 12% of the U.S. population, or approximately 30 million people are between the ages of 18 – 24. Think of this wonderful resource as our future and we need to engage them now to help set their future in our hobby.

Emily states in her article: "The Goal of the Model A Youth Month" is for each local Model A club to host an event that exposes as many youth and young adults as possible the Model A Ford." A great way to get them engaged is to host events that let them touch and feel the car. I've noticed a marked increase in interest when I let young people honk the horn, sit behind the steering wheel, stand on the running board or rumble seat or let them sit in the back seat. Their eyes always open wide and a big grin spreads across their face when they honk the horn. Nothing like that Ahooga - Ahooga sound to get their interest. Not only does it warm their heart, it warms mine as well.

As Emily points out, "Generally, activities that are hands-on or up-close are the best for encouraging participation and generating questions. But whatever you choose takes us one step further in fostering involvement and creating interest." Just remember, you just can't go wrong regardless of the activities your club hosts. Your own enthusiasm for the Model A is contagious and the kids or young adults will respond in kind.

Another resource for youth involvement ideas is the March/April 2023 Restorer article by Dr. Wilber Smith about the Pasadena High School Model A Club's "third" Model A car raffle. Here is a group of kids after my own heart. They are total immersed in all aspects of the Model A operation and restoration. Take a moment to reread the article and you might see the path for similar success in your local community. Dr. Smith serves as Technical Director for the club and offers his email at: phsmafc@gmail.com for reference. I'm sure he stands ready to assist anyone with advice on starting a similar program at school local to you.

See You Down the Road, Robert Bullard
